CHILLIWACK, B.C. (CP)—Princess Margaret survived a hair-raising 17-mile drive from Abbotsford airport yesterday to arrive at the Royal Canadian School of Military Engineering here for lunch and to inspect a guard of honor.

The royal cavalcade hit speeds in excess of 85 miles an hour in an effort to make up a 10-minute delay in the schedule.

The Princess was 20 minutes late leaving Vancouver's International Airport for the short plane hop in the RCAF's C-5 aircraft to nearby Abbotsford. Part of that time was caught up during the flight.

But despite all the rush, Princess Margaret was still 12 minutes late arriving back at Vancouver airport.

From there she was driven to Lieutenant-Governor Ross'

Vancouver residence where she was to pass the night. Today she attends the UBC convocation to receive an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

Her 3½-hour afternoon tour carried her through the lush Fraser Valley to a half dozen small communities.

A member of the official cavalcade was almost involved in an accident.

The car, carrying Reeve and Mrs. Peter Jenewein of Haney, was cut off as the cavalcade pulled out of Mission City.

Told by RCMP officers to "get moving" and get back into the cavalcade, the army driver attempted to pass the RCMP patrol car bringing up the rear of the cavalcade.

The RCMP driver, not knowing the car was official, swung out in a blocking action.

Tires screeched and smoked as the army driver stepped on the brakes. The heavy car lurched to one side and narrowly missed a vehicle parked on the roadside.

The Royal standard of the Princess was run up on the main flagpole of the sprawling Haney residence where the cavalcade drove in.

Army chefs had outdone themselves for the occasion, turning out a menu that included green salad, jellied chicken fancifully called "galantine de poulet," baked Alaska, assorted cheese and fresh fruit, petits fours and coffee followed by liqueurs.

A Sappers' band played rock 'n' roll music with a military air for the Princess' departure from the camp.

At Haney, a church built 99 years ago and floated to its present location was visited.

The visit, not scheduled on the official itinerary, was arranged at her request.

The church, B.C.'s oldest, is the Church of St. John the Divine, at Maple Ridge.

The Princess heard about the church in England when the rector, Rev. Harry May, sent her an invitation through his First World War friend, Rev. "Tubby" Clayton, now chaplain to the Queen.

Emergency Bill Law Today

CPR Boats to Be Back In Service by Weekend

Administrator Chosen To Take Over Fleet

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons, sitting 59 minutes overtime Thursday night, passed emergency government legislation to get the CPR's British Columbia steamship service back in operation.

The bill now goes to the Senate, which sits this afternoon. The bill is expected to be approved by the upper house and receive royal assent late in the afternoon.

BY SATURDAY

This would permit the appointment of an administrator by the government to take over the ships immediately after the bill becomes law and a resumption of service along the B.C. coast and to Vancouver Island possibly by Saturday.

The government has selected a federal civil servant to be administrator.

NOT IDENTIFIED

Justice Minister Fulton replied "yes" in the Commons Thursday night when asked whether the government has someone in mind and whether that person has accepted the job. He added the man is in the government service, but declined to identify him.

ACTS AS AGENT

The administrator would, under the legislation, act as an agent of the company for the duration of negotiations towards a settlement of the labor dispute between the CPR and the Seafarers' International Union (CLC).

Labor Minister Starr said he would not name the administrator until the bill has been approved by both the Commons and the Senate.

TIME LIMIT SET

In the clause-by-clause study Thursday night, the government accepted an amendment by Opposition Leader Pearson to put a time limit on the measure. It will expire not later than the 30th sitting day of the next session of parliament. This change meets Liberal objections to the fact that the government bill did not stipulate a time limit for duration of resumed negotiations on a settlement to the wage dispute.

The question of profit is important but the question of service is even more important," Mr. Pearson said in Commons debate on the government's emergency legislation to end the seamen's strike on the CPR west coast steamships fleet.

Mr. Pearson added that the B.C. strike perhaps has driven home the need to do something about collective bargaining in the light of modern conditions.

Frank Howard (CCF-Skeena)

suggested the Trans-Canada Highway could be extended to Gabriola Island, one of the Gulf Islands between Vancouver Island and the mainland.

"A Crown-operated ferry service between Gabriola Island and the mainland could make the crossing in 45 minutes."

The present service between Vancouver and Nanaimo, he said, takes two hours.

Father Kills One Cat

Three Cougars Menace Baby

CAMPBELL RIVER—Paul Despins of the Kelsey Bay-Sayward area has cougar steaks on hand today.

He shot and killed a cougar yesterday after it had threatened the life of his three-year-old daughter.

Three of the big cats were in his yard, one only 10 feet from the child.

RUSHED INTO HOUSE

He picked her up and rushed into the house, slamming the door.

Despins shot the eldest animal and the others fled into the bush. He took the meat to Mrs. Len Harding of Salmon River Lodge, who stored it in her deep freeze. Her cook says the meat makes a tasty meal.

NEARLY KILLED

A neighbor of the Despins at Sayward is Ed McLean, who was attacked and nearly killed by a cougar in January, 1951. He was working as a government telegraph lineman in the area.

McLean's right arm is still impaired. Sinews bitten by the cougar failed to reunite.

Hungry Bears Plunder Camp At Buttle

CAMPBELL RIVER—Two hungry, fully grown bears—one reportedly savage—made a shambles of the Cattermole and Tretheway cookhouse near Buttle Lake last weekend.

There are six men at the camp but none were bothered by the marauding animals.

Game warden Rex Hayes was called to track down the bears.

Ike Seeks Plan To Confine Talks

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower drafted a new letter early today to Premier Khrushchev which is reported to have insisted that the United Nations Security Council set the time, place and ground rules for a summit meeting.

(See other stories, pages 3 and 26.)

Eisenhower rushed his draft to British and French leaders in an apparent move to win their acceptance to his plan to pin down Khrushchev to clearly-defined conditions for any summit conference.

MAIN GOAL

Eisenhower's main goal was understood to be to get Khrushchev on record as willing to follow the existing rules of the Security Council during the meeting and not indulge in a free-wheeling discussion without voting.

Khrushchev proposed a summit conference on the Middle East to start Monday. But Eisenhower obviously was seeking to slow the rush by a couple of weeks.

DE GAULLE OBJECTS

Continuing objections of France's Premier Charles de Gaulle clouded the outlook anew yesterday as the three allied governments got together for urgent consultations on their replies to Khrushchev.

French Ambassador Herve Alphand informed Dulles de Gaulle continues to object to an immediate summit meeting within the United Nations. But Alphand said he was not ruling out de Gaulle's reluctant attendance. Paris dispatched said de Gaulle felt he could spend no more than two or three days in New York.

Egypt's President Nasser has intimated his willingness to fly to New York for the meeting.

POLICE START PLANNING

Brazil and Turkey have also asked for a place at a summit conference table.

The state department has begun planning with New York City police the security arrangements that would be required to protect Khrushchev if he came to the U.S. Security chief Rodger O'Connor said government security agents, plus New York's 22,000 police, "will be able to assure Khrushchev all the protection he needs."

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI)—No signals came yesterday from the rocket nose cone that carried a third mouse into space and fear grew that "Wickie," the tiny passenger, had shared the fate of two predecessors.

Details to Be Given in September

Wenner-Gren Set to Go

By COURTNEY TOWER

Axel Wenner-Gren will announce about the end of September his first planned project in the vastly ambitious industrial empire he is plotting out in B.C.'s Rocky Mountain Trench area.

The Swedish multi-millionaire, who has so many irons in the fire he isn't quite sure whether or not he controls one of the world's top camera manufacturing concerns, was definite last night about the progress of surveys into his giant, controversial B.C. industrial undertaking.

The surveys made by his group have yielded "even more than we expected," he said after dining on steak and canteloupe, coffee and Keweenaw apple juice with Premier Bennett.

"We are ahead of schedule in our surveys, and we still enjoy the full confidence of the provincial government," he said, one arm draped over the shoulder of the premier.

"Do you think we should say anything about it to this

Mr. Bennett added that "as premier of this province I would like to say the surveys are on schedule, actually ahead of schedule, and we have never dealt with finer people."

Broad plan of the Wenner-

Gren group calls for a powerhouse that would be the world's largest single hydroelectric installation. There would be a monorail railway between mines and industrial plants in the area.

At the dinner, in the lieutenant-governor's suite at the Empress Hotel, were Lands and Forester Minister Ray Willison, provincial financial adviser J. V. Fisher, Pacific Great Eastern Railway general manager Einar Gunderson and Ronald Worley, executive assistant to the premier.

Premier Bennett noted, as a photographer pried his trade, that, especially during the recent visit of Princess Margaret, a good investment would be stocks in a film company.

"Do you own any camera factories among your holdings?" he queried.

"I don't know . . . I'm really not sure," said the financier.

He was told by one of his directors, Birger Strid, that they have options on a Swedish firm, which makes about the world's finest cameras.

Crisis Nearer Than You Think!

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Geographic Society said yesterday the Middle East everyone's talking about is really the Near East.

The society defines the "three easts" this way:

Near East—Turkey, Cyprus, Syria, Lebanon, Israel, Jordan, Egypt, Iraq, Iran, and the countries of the Arabian Peninsula.

Middle East—India, Pakistan, Afghanistan, Nepal, Bhutan, Sikkim, and Ceylon.

Far East—China, Mongolia, Korea, Japan, Formosa, The Philippines, Indochina, Thailand, Burma, Malaya, and Indonesia.

ALLABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

COMMANDER H. W. S. SOULSBY, RCN (retired) hasn't much sympathy for the photographers who complained of being treated rudely aboard HMCS Cres-

"From their side of the story it appears they were not treated royalty, inspections of the very courteously," he says. "We armed forces by VIPs, and he has been told the other so on."

"However, I have lived long enough to know that there are always very good points as well as faults in all these things."

Mrs. J. R. Barter, 534 Westhay Terrace, had this to say on the subject:

"I wonder . . . if you investigated what we care? We got the story first . . ."

"The not so graceful antics of photographers do nothing to add to the dignity of such ceremonial occasions as visits of

Over-Exaggerated

"It seems to me in general that this whole thing has been over-exaggerated. The fact that the (photographers) found out that they weren't quite as important as royalty is a shame and I'm sure it hurt their pride more than anything else."

"I'd be more inclined to believe that any inconvenience they suffered would be because of their own actions rather than that of the Royal Canadian Navy."

"I think that making such a big thing of this incident without first finding out the true facts is both childish and very ridiculous."

Mrs. Barter asks: "1. Were these invitations issued by the navy or by the committee looking after the royal visit?"

"2. Were they really guarded or was it a figment of their imagination?"

Mawkish Intrusion

Mrs. Barter makes some good points. Much of the royal visit coverage in Canadian newspapers has been sick-making in its pettiness, mawkishness and intrusion upon privacy. Royal visit coverage usually is nauseating. But the people seem to want a great amount of detail about royal lives, and the press feeds it to them.

Even the people who complain about the vulgarity of the press eat up such details with gusto.

However, Mrs. Barter is on the wrong track when she says the photographers were piqued at finding that they weren't as important as royalty. They knew it already. Taking pictures of the princess and the fleet was part of their work. Most of them would rather have been relaxing on some beach, 50 miles away.

Guarding You People

"I asked the two guards if they were guarding us, and they said yes. An officer was asked the same question and the reply was: 'Yes, guarding you people and everyone else.' I am sure of my facts."

The chiefs' mess aboard the Crescent is a very nice mess and being an ex-member of the Canadian Navy I was proud of it. But I was ashamed to see visiting newsmen from the United States and United Kingdom receive such . . . treatment.

"I have no beef about the photographic restrictions. The beef is that two jugs of water and four glasses were served to 13 men, and nothing else, in three and one-half hours. In my books this is a disgraceful way for a service to act, whether they are carrying royalty or not."

"Ask any navy man. He'll tell you that the citizens of Victoria are very good to the navy, and think a lot of the navy, without worrying about how much money they spend. This is a real navy town."

It is true that reporters and photographers are sometimes rude in their quest for news and pictures to supply to their customers, the people. Usually, however, they are rude only when they have to be.

The press did not spare the feelings of police chief Mulligan in Vancouver. Labor reporter Victor Reiszel was so rude to union racketeers in New York that they threw acid in his face and blinded him. Not all newspapermen do such worthwhile work. But all of them are human beings trying to learn what is going on, and tell the public about it."

BOSTON (UPI)—Little Nils-Olov Wisell, the 11-year-old Swedish boy who has no kidneys, is kept alive in a room made as completely sterile as possible by ultra-modern germ fighting techniques.

The youngster awaited a possible kidney transplant operation which has never before been successful. He was born with only one kidney and this was removed after an accident two months ago.

Though kidney transplants are possible between identical twins, similar operations on persons with dissimilar genes have failed on 18 occasions.

As a preliminary to the transplant attempt, Nils had radi-

The proposal had threatened controversy, and the city engineer's department found another way of providing room for westbound traffic in the rush-hours.

The idea had been to paint a double line which cars couldn't legally cross to indicate that two lanes belonged to eastbound traffic and only one, except during the parking-ban hours, to westbound traffic.

Necessity for the ban was eliminated by doubling the line only near intersections. Cars now cross the off-centre "centre" line legally in mid-block.

Ald. Austin Curtis chided city council yesterday for having elected former alderman W. F. Pinfold to the Memorial Arena Commission, and having displaced former chairman Forrest L. Shaw.

Mr. Pinfold had missed the three meetings of the commission since his election, Ald. Curtis said.

How people disposed their abilities over the year was what counted, Ald. Hugh Ramsay answered, and Ald. Arthur Dowell added that it was "regrettable that this has been brought up in this council."

Ald. D. J. Proudfoot told council that, in search of equipment for first-aid posts for the

Sommers Trial in 47th Day

'Done Nothing Wrong' John Gray Testifies

VANCOUVER (CP) — One of the accused in the Sommers bribery-conspiracy case took the witness stand for the first time Thursday and told the assize court jury that he has "done nothing wrong."

John M. Gray, 47-year-old warplane bomber pilot and now director of Pacific Coast Services Limited, denied the crown's charges he permitted his personal bank account to be used in transfer of money to former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers.

EVERSFIELD REQUEST

He said the various transfers through his account to that of Evergreen Lumber Sales, a Pacific subsidiary, were made at the request of former Pacific bookkeeper Charles Eversfield. He said Eversfield told him they were "internal matters that had nothing to do with me" but he had protested about them at the time.

Eversfield, who left the Pacific firm in 1955, has been the Crown's chief witness.

SURPRISE MOVE

John Gray was put on the stand by his counsel, Ernest Hinkson, in a surprise move following completion of the case for B.C. Forest Products as the trial ground through its 47th day. M. W. McCutcheon, Toronto financier and B.C. Forest vice-president, completed his testimony, denying knowledge of any wrongdoing by his concern.

VALUABLE WORK

The Crown claims B.C. Forest paid $30,000 to get a timber licence. But McCutcheon maintained the money, paid Pacific in two $15,000 payments, was for "valuable" work done by that firm and its president, H. W. Gray, for B.C. Forest.

Hinkson told the court he would later call Pacific's vice-president, S. W. Armitage, to corroborate Gray's testimony.

UNDER CONTROL

Gray said he once questioned his brother, H. W. Gray, as to what Eversfield was doing in making transfers through his account to the Evergreen account. He said H. W. Gray replied: "I don't know, but he seems to know what he is doing and appears to have everything under control."

BAD POSITION

In 1954, he related, the Pacific company was in a bad financial position. He and his brother and

Horseplay Suddenly Tragedy

Armitage had a conference. They decided to take money out of the firm when it was available, to have cash to start it up again should it go bankrupt. He said he and Armitage each eventually got $1,875 and H. W. Gray $6,500.

John Gray said he cashed his cheque and took the money home and put it in a trunk for six weeks. Later he transferred it to a company safety deposit box and there it lay until January, 1956.

SYSTEM REVISED

In the meantime, he said, Eversfield had been fired in March, 1955, and the bookkeeping system of Pacific was revised. The company began flourishing but because of a bank overdraft it was decided the money that had been taken out should be put back in the firm.

He testified that both he and Armitage returned their $1,875 amounts and his brother gave him $5, $100 bills which he deposited to the firm's account.

29 Year Separation Ends

Son 'Sees' Mom For First Time

MONTREAL (CP) — Grimacing to control his emotion, Don Whillan dashed across an airport tarmac yesterday and embraced his mother for the first time in his life.

His mother, Mrs. Kathleen Musson, her face also working, stepped off an airliner from London, England, and into the arms of the tall young man she had given up for adoption as an infant 29 years before.

WORDLESS REUNION

Photographers recorded their brief, wordless reunion and then Mrs. Musson was hustled off through customs. Later she left with Don and his 31-year-old brother, Fred Musson, for Lindsay, Ont., and a two-month visit to Fred's farm home where families of both sons will live during her stay.

Mrs. Musson was deserted by her husband before Don was born, when she was 21. She felt her child's best chance lay in being raised as a son in the home of good adoptive parents.

FRED WENT TOO

She took her older son, Fred, to live with her mother in England, and did not return to Canada until yesterday.

Don was adopted by a Whillans family. "I guess it was all right until his wife died when I was a year old," he said. "Then there was a succession of housekeepers."

When Don showed up in kindergarten one day bleeding from a beating administered by a housekeeper, he was turned over to the children's aid.

13 FOSTER HOMES

He was raised in 13 foster homes and believed himself an illegitimate child.

Don urgently wanted to find his mother. But he was 23, married, father of two children, and an electrician with a job in the city.

Then Massaro tried again but lost his footing. Both plunged three stories to the street.

Teresa died later in a hospital. Massaro was in critical condition with a possible broken back and other injuries.

"We were only kidding around, kidding around," said Massaro.

'I'll Give My Life' Says Iraqi Chief

BAGHDAD, Iraq (UPI) — Brigadier Abdul Kerim El Kassem, leader of last week's coup d'état and now Iraqi premier, said yesterday he had been planning the revolt for the past three years.

Kassem said the revolution was carefully and secretly planned and had the full support of the nation. "Personally, I am ready to sacrifice my life," he said.

BEIRUT (UPI) — President Nasser Thursday was reported plagued by Communist disorders in his province of Syria just as Iraqi rebel leaders began talking of joining his United Arab Republic.

Reliable informants returning said the Communists organized 50-man groups to shout "Down with Nasser" in the streets. They said more than 200 were arrested.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The state department has guaranteed the safety of Premier Khrushchev should he come to New York for a meeting of the UN Security Council. The guarantee came as security experts sweated over plans to protect the Russian leader who was expected to be the main attraction at any such meeting and sure to draw huge crowds.

BEIRUT (UPI) — The trim Russian cruise ship Pobeda steamed slowly out of port here yesterday leaving behind a somnolent goggle-eyed U.S. Sixth Fleet. Officers lightly dismissed any Soviet cloak-and-dagger activities. But their binoculars had been focused on the Pobeda nonetheless — to get a better look at several bikini-clad Russian girls lounging around the ship's swimming pool.

Diluted Gratitude

THE Dominion government is to be congratulated on presenting emergency legislation designed to get the CPR west coast ferries running again, and opposition parties in the House of Commons are to be commended for facilitating the passage of the special bill. In the course of action now being taken there is evidence of realization at last at Ottawa that this is an emergency of national concern.

But it was an emergency two and a half months ago when the seamen went out on strike, and for Vancouver Island it has had disastrous effects throughout the 10 weeks of waiting for the federal government to act. That is why praise of the government's unprecedented intervention this week is subject to bitter qualification on the score of what might have been. Every day the ships remained idle cost the business of Vancouver Island a fortune. As the weeks of federal indecision sped by the effects of the delay became cumulative, so that when decision finally was made this week service could not be restored without further delays.

The course which Prime Minister Diefenbaker has now taken is similar to that pursued by Premier Bennett in the case of the Black Bell service in time to prevent any interruption of that system in the first instance. It is a grave step for any government to take, and allowance can be made for hesitancy back in mid-May when the CPR seamen quit their ships; but not for two and a half months of indecision at a price of millions upon millions of dollars to the economy of this Island. Continuation of Black Bell operations at that time did not in any way absolve the federal government, which alone has the jurisdiction, from responsibility for restoration of CPR service.

Had Ottawa acted resolutely in May the probability is that the CPR tie-up would not have lasted for more than a few days, and the damage done could quickly have been repaired. What tempers gratitude for action at this late stage is the knowledge that if the Dominion government had moved to end the CPR tie-up at the very beginning there almost certainly would not have been a Black Bell strike last week.

The loss, present and future, incurred through prolonged indecision at Ottawa falls directly on the tourist trade of Victoria and the Island and nothing can be done to recoup it. The prime minister therefore should not feel hurt by the somewhat tepid response out here; because of all the strikes in B.C. this year financially has been the most disastrous; and the galling thought in the minds of those who have suffered is that it need not have been.

Clothes in the Schools

THE local school board is not aiming to copy the Christian Diors of the fashion world but it has some ideas about dress fitting the schoolroom which it will put before parents. No doubt the latter will welcome them, for exaggerated styles cost money and parents usually have to foot the clothes bill.

In private schools dress regimentation is easy; pupils either conform or they leave the school. In the public school system discipline of this nature is not so easy, yet if it wills the school board can be drastic also. It has statutory authority for enforcing moderation in dress among its pupils.

The trouble, as usual with such things, is with a minority of extroverts who like to show off with garb quite inappropriate for school. Girls, apparently, are not the worst offenders. It is the long-haired male cultists who affect the most startling sartorial displays, obviously designed to attract attention and separate them from others, thereby upsetting the norm of school life. This group would be shocked if every student had to wear a uniform, yet a uniform their outlandish dress certainly is.

The clothes guide to be given parents is modest and sensible. Neatness for both boys and girls is the criterion, without extremes in either style or accessory. Certain habits are condemned — elaborate jewelry, form-fitting clothes, teddy-boy jackets and straggling shirts, etc.—but the board has not erred in severity. There is plenty of room left for individual choice and taste, so long as it is fairly conservative.

It is significant to note that the board's recommendations are partially the result of a recent student questionnaire on the subject. Most junior and senior high school students are therefore in agreement with the limitations now being placed on schoolroom dress. This should make the school board's task all the easier.

If it has to, however, the board should not shrink from making its rules about dress stick. The extremists are generally those to whom school is a place for anything but study, and who often are a nuisance to their fellow students. A flaunting garb can be as disrupting as bad behavior, and schools can well do without either.

* Chest Needs Volunteers

SUCCESS of the annual Community Chest campaign depends primarily, of course, on the liberality of the givers, but it rests also to a very large extent on the willingness of volunteers to undertake the door-to-door collections. Their importance in the scheme of things was strikingly demonstrated last year when an epidemic of influenza coincided with the Chest appeal and laid low a great many of the canvassers. This year the directors of the campaign are using good judgment in appealing for volunteers far in advance of the opening of the drive.

Obviously the more people who offer their services the easier it will be for each one to do his or her part in the canvass. If enough canvassers come forward the whole residential phase of the campaign could be completed in a day or so, without hardship on anyone. Two or three hours would be the most each canvasser would have to devote to the calls, and that isn't very much to ask of able-bodied people with the welfare of the community at heart.

The organization of the collection system is complex, and that is why it is important to have rosters of canvassers compiled a long time ahead of the Community Chest appeal. For the Greater Victoria region some 3,000 callers are required to take care of the residential collections, and Mr. Alan MacFarlane, co-chairman of that division, says the need is urgent, particularly in the outlying districts. Those willing to assist should give their names to Mr. MacFarlane by telephoning 3-1158, or to his co-chairman, Mrs. Noel Morgan, at 7-3211.

Pakistan and Iran

By BERNARD KAPLAN

North American Newspaper Alliance

PARIS — Federation between Iran and Pakistan, two of the three remaining Moslem members of the Baghdad Pact, may be in the offing.

The move reportedly is already under discussion by the two governments. It has been learned from official Pakistani sources here. The initiative is understood to have come from Teheran and especially from the shah. It is receiving western, particularly American, encouragement.

Salvaging of the pact, in the wake of the loss of Iraq, is viewed by NATO diplomats here as one of the vital tasks which must immediately be undertaken if the political balance in the mid-east is to be restored.

According to Pakistani sources, the Karachi government is weighing the possibility of a union with Iran carefully and tends to favor it, though aware of the risks it involves.

Though Moslem, Pakistan is geographically and historically part of the Indian sub-continent. Within the country itself most criticism of the Baghdad Pact—which must now be rechristened—centres on the argument that it thrusts Pakistan into the problems of an area not its own.

Diplomatic sources here say the shah is a badly worried man. The brutal anti-royalist uprising in neighboring Iraq has given the Iranian monarchy its worst jolt since Mossadegh's abortive three-day "republic" sent the shah into flight five years ago.

Since then, Iran has appeared comparatively quiet, but all western diplomatic channels confirm that considerable discontent continues beneath the surface, including the activity of the outlawed but ever busy Communist Tudeh Party. No one is forgetting that it was Mossadegh who began the nationalist chain-reaction throughout the Middle East, inspiring, among others, Colonel Nasser.

Federation with the 70,000,000 Pakistanis, even in the loose form it would likely take, would be a big boost to the shah's prestige. It would also provide him with the backing of an army considerably larger, better armed and far better trained than his own.

Culturally and racially, the Persians and the West Pakistanis have many affinities. For geographic reasons, both have reasons to fear Russian expansion which historically has been pointed in their direction. The Iraqi coup now gives Iran hostile neighbors on two long frontiers, instead of just one.

Merger could be expected to touch off an angry crescendo from India. Prime Minister Nehru long ago labelled Pakistan's membership in the Baghdad alliance as an act of hostility toward India and a threat to Indian nationalism in the East-West struggle. The Indian government also has protested the U.S. delivery of arms to Pakistan, in co-operation with the Baghdad Pact, on the grounds that the latter might be tempted to use them against India in Kashmir.

But if Pakistan and Iran decide to federate, diplomatic informants doubt that Indian opposition alone would be sufficient to dissuade them.

NEWS a week ago that Bert Thomas was at the English Channel was a reminder that strait-swimming here has passed out of fashion.

Years before the flurry sparked by Flo Chadwick took effect I wished in this space that Juan de Fuca might demote the Dover Strait as the mecca of marathon swimming. Alas, our moments have come and gone and once more the fish are undisturbed while in the English Channel they have to scurry out of the way of annual aspirants to fame.

Now I doubt that Victoria will ever assume the mantle of Dover, unless someone diverts the Japanese current.

A perspiring shirt-sleeved colleague asked me one of these burning days this week how on earth I manage to go around with my coat on. The truth of the matter is I am usually unaware of the coat. I have developed a philosophical attitude towards heat by ignoring it, although my colleague eyed me askance when I lectured him on the psychology of weather and how to cope with it.

I refrained from telling him however that my philosophy collapses when the days are as cold as the current week has been hot.

The Middle East unease sends one to Lawrence, who knew the Arabs well. He has this to say in his "Seven Pillars of Wisdom":

"They (the Arabs) were a people of stags, for whom the abstract was the strongest motive, the process of infinite courage and variety, and the end nothing. They were as unstable as water, and like water would perhaps finally prevail. Since the dawn of life, in successive waves they had been dashing themselves against the coasts of flesh. Each wave was broken, but, like the sea, wore away ever so little of the granite on which it failed, and some day, ages yet, might roll unchecked over the place where the material world had been, and God would move upon the face of those waters. One such wave (and not the least) I raised and rolled before the breath of an idea, till it reached its crest, and toppled over and fell at Damascus. The wash of that wave, thrown back by the resistance of vested things, will provide the matter of the following wave, when in fullness of time the sea shall be raised once more."

Did his desert life make Lawrence a seer?

An anonymous wag — although why he should another his name I don't know — says of a recent reference here about Pontius Pilate being, perhaps, a Scot (he was merely born here):

"Well, why shouldn't he be? After all Adam was a Scotchman, there's not so bad; he had no trousers on when he went out. His kilt was a fig leaf off a tree; and his trousers never got baggy at the knee!"

My sportive correspondent is borrowing plumes; he tells me these lines were in a song sung before Harry Lauder's time by a comedian named Hector Grant.

It is interesting, and all too very easy, to link oneself to a great man. Reading a pamphlet I came across recently I realized that Robert Burns died in the month I was born in, albeit not in the same year I hasten to add. That loomed him closer. Then I read that a son of the Tennants who farmed next his father, and were intimate with the Burns family, was the founder of the St. Rollox chemical works; and as a boy I passed the St. Rollox smokestack many a time. That cemented me to the bard.

But there, let fancy go no further, for it is astonishing what secret vanity will do to a person.

Letter from London

Oil Is Britain's Achilles Heel

By RICHARD L. THOMAS

EVER since the Suez crisis there have been periodic warnings about Britain's dependence upon oil from the Middle East. It has been discussed on this page before, and it is being discussed again now. The 18 months between Suez and Lebanon has increased rather than decreased dependence, but methods of transport have been improved.

The oil companies of course have some of the best salesmen in the world—and they have an excellent product to sell. British Railways, for example, for more than a century the biggest user of British coal and the proving ground of the famous South Wales steam coal, has turned to diesel traction almost a decade after Canadian Pacific.

They have discovered that it is cheaper, cleaner and more reliable—but as each steam locomotive goes out of commission so Britain's dependence on oil increases. In South Wales the old coal ports of Llanelli, Barry Port and Barry are in the doldrums. Coal is not a popular commodity any longer. Oil is cleaner, more efficient and much less laborious.

Even our nationalized electricity undertaking is busily generating electricity from oil whilst awaiting the atom age. The first trickles of atom pile power are already in the mains. The old steam wagons which used to be one of the sights of our main roads have all disappeared—although several came from retirement during the petrol rationing imposed by Suez—and there are very few county councils which have a steam roller amongst their equipment. Diesel traction has taken over.

The long and short of it is that the United Kingdom now consumes practically a million tons of oil a week.

It is used for transport, heating and power. And believe it or not Britain is at last waking up to the virtues of central heating and the oily boys have seen to it that oil furnaces are the most popular. Indeed virtually every facet of our activity is governed in some way by oil—from detergents and margarine to jet aircraft, automobiles, and domestic light and fuel.

The point of course is that every ton has to be imported. In the main it is good business for the British merchant navy. At the time of Suez we were short of tankers. Today there is a surplus of tankers but they depend upon the high seas being open. We need not worry very much if the Suez Canal is closed—but we do have to worry about Persian gulf ports and Arabian pipelines.

What is often overlooked of course is the fact that Iraq is just as dependent upon selling oil as we are on buying it. Nasser is just as dependent upon selling the transport value of the Suez Canal as we are on buying it—indeed more so—and it is unlikely that any Middle East potentate is under any illusions about Russian ability to replace the Western powers. Even if Russia took the oil for roubles, what good would they be? Russia has very few consumer goods for sale to its own people, and even if that capacity were transferred to export it would be inadequate for the Arab demands.

What is important, however, is Britain's physical dependence on Middle East oil. It has been argued with some merit that we should make the economic adjustments necessary to secure our supplies from other parts of the world; at the present time three-quarters of the total comes from the Middle East and the remaining quarter from the rest of the world. The transfer is largely a question of dollars. If that was done Russia could be left to dominate the Middle East openly instead of subversively as at present—and maybe Arab cunning would meet its match and maybe it would not.

The restraining factor on Russia at the moment is fear of what active intervention would cost in terms of lessening pressure on the satellites. Russia's most efficient military leaders are at present engaged in keeping the lid on Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia. If they have to be transferred a satellite boil over and rebellion in East Germany is a very real probability. And the one thing which could unite Germans, Czechs, Poles and Hungarians would be the opportunity of getting even with Russia. So although probabilities are against more than normal Russian activity, possibilities remain.

The lesson of the crisis is the need for Britain to develop alternative sources for oil supplies from the Middle East and to intensify developments for atomic generation of power. Atomic power stations are being constructed and going into service at a leisurely pace. At the moment each new addition does virtually nothing to relieve the demand on oil—at best it takes care of the increased consumption and makes unnecessary greater importations. Atomic generation is not expected to make a dominant contribution to supplies until 1956 at the present rate of progress.

A change of plan may now be expected, and work on Zeta now going ahead again with renewed success may well revolutionize the whole position. But there is no doubt that Britain's dependence upon Middle East oil is an Achilles heel.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

UP in the Lake of the Woods country, where east begins to meet west, there is a forester's station at Nym Lake, and among the forestry staff is one young fellow who has quite a talent with a paint brush.

Mostly, painting around a forestry station has to do with canoes, cabins, fire towers and other sundry humdrum fields of artistic expression. But this young fellow showed a decided aptitude at lettering. He could letter the departmental initials and codes on various articles of equipment.

So it was suggested to him that he do up a few signs for the benefit and guidance of tourists who have begun to swarm through the Nym Lake region.

Thus began a stream of very attractive signs giving travel directions, names of lakes and localities, cautions against forest fire, and similar platitudes of the sign painter's art. So he was asked to do a very nice big sign for the entrance to one of the park roads, through which most of the American visitors pass.

A week later, there it was:

"Keep Ontario Green — Bring Money."

Our artist is back painting canoes, at last report.

The Prince Is Not Alarmed

(From The London Free Press)

THE secretary to Prince Philip, answering a man who has sent His Royal Highness a special baldness recipe, thanked him, and wrote: "His Royal Highness is not particularly alarmed at the prospect of going bald."

This is good news. The notion of royalty sporting a toupee is hateful. But we like the notion of royalty in such realistic mood that there is no shame in a bald noggin and no disgrace in a high forehead.

The old saying in the country was: "You never see grass on a race track," which we believe. Thank you Sir.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

(From The Windsor Star)

AUTOMOBILE companies are working on 1959 models which are expected to be longer, wider and lower. And, it can be added, more expensive.

It has been the habit of these companies to change models year after year to create interest among the consumers. But isn't this one time when only minor changes are in order?

This hasn't been one of those selling years which the automobile companies can boast about. Sales are down and some of the firms are planning to introduce new models earlier than usual in an effort to whip up more customers.

One thing will sell more cars and that is more economical models. The buying public will not beat down dealer's doors when they find out that they will have to pay more for a new car and repairs as well.

If the industry would forget about ideas to glamorize autos more and more, it would be doing itself a favor. The average motorist wants a car which will provide him cheap transportation. He is willing to forgo a great many of those features which add nothing to the operation of his vehicle.

Sales of those small foreign cars still are booming. The Renault Co. of France sold 200 cars in Canada in 1957. This year they expect to sell 4,000 and the goal in 1959 is 10,000.

So it is apparent that the public will gladly trade glitter and glamour for economy.

Khrushchev says he hates to see women working as street cleaners. Many a man who feels the same way about seeing a woman mowing the lawn solves the problem by slipping off to the golf course.

As everybody knows an executive has practically nothing to do—except decide what has to be done . . . tell someone to do it . . . listen to reasons why it shouldn't be done . . . why it should be done

British Health Service

I have been interested in recent London letters that you have published by Richard L. Thomas on the British national health service. All of the articles appear to be written with a definite bias against the principle of such a service.

To put the matter in its proper perspective I think your readers would be interested in the official United Kingdom Information Service newsletter of July, 1958. Dealing with the now 10-year-old national health service, the bulletin states:

"The essential freedoms have been preserved; the people are free to use the service or not as they please; the patient can choose his own doctor and change to another if he wishes to do so; and the doctor is free from interference in his clinical judgment and may accept private patients while taking part in the service."

"About 97 per cent of Britain's people are using the service. The great majority of specialists are taking part—about 98 per cent of general practitioners, 94 per cent of dentists and nearly all drugists. There are over half a million beds in the 3,000 hospitals which have been taken into the service; some hospitals and homes (mostly run by religious orders) remain outside the service for special reasons and there are also private nursing homes which have to be registered as such."

"No venture on this scale can escape teething problems; these have been tackled and largely overcome."

Artists and Critics

To those who like to tell us what they think of modern art, I would say that if there is a trait in human nature standing out above all others, it is that of criticism. Nothing else that man does is done everywhere by him so much as finding fault.

To criticize is neither to be friendly nor hostile. It is to be a true philosopher. Who criticizes another undertakes another's business. The critic of art is to be judged a critic, and the genius and the critic alike should be artists.

All men should be critics. A certain concern in the affairs of others is desirable and the way to criticism is to practice tolerance and judge others and yourself with equal charity.

Fire of Friendship

As press officer for our USN force in Esquimalt during the recent visit of H.R.H. Princess Margaret, I am delighted to have been of service, meagre as it was. After meeting Her Royal Highness I'm pleased indeed just to have seen the navy in port during a celebration involving her.

I'm writing to show a sampling of the sincere appreciation we feel for the gracious hospitality the citizens of Greater Victoria so lavishly bestowed upon us. Some of our personnel at one time or another have found citizens and navy men with hearts so open, but I strongly suspect the welcome in Victoria outdoes them all.

We know these outstanding examples of friendliness are often kept somewhat buried when crowds of complete strangers seem to engulf us, so it is doubly important that those of our navy and civic groups who share the responsibility for kindling the fire of friendship receive some inkling of how very much we enjoyed the visit.

Just to show how grateful we really are, we'll even give you credit for the wonderful weather.

Ludicrous System

A matter that is bothering the U.S. is the redundancy of so-called governments and a striking parallel obtains in Canada. The social welfare system that is being built up by these so-called governments naturally breeds a gigantic bureaucracy which absorbs most of the funds provided by the taxpayers to keep the many drones in being.

The absolute absurdity of the wealthy being kept under a welfare system on a par with the really needy is as ludicrous as any farce could be.

Mr. Whitmore said the move is designed to protect the important run of spring salmon to spawning grounds in the river.

SAN FRANCISCO—Navy Rear Adm. Lynne C. Quiggle, 52, disappeared aboard the liner President Cleveland while it was en route from Japan to San Francisco.

After the ship docked yesterday the skipper, Commodore H. J. Ehman, said the admiral was last seen 36 hours out of port. He also said Mrs. Quiggle had informed him that her husband had awakened her early Wednesday morning and told her: "You would be better off a widow." With that, he kissed his wife, left the cabin and hasn't been seen since.

Admiral Quiggle had just completed a tour of duty as chief of staff of the joint-command, U.S. forces in Japan. He was bound for San Diego to assume command of Amphibious Group 1.

Her father is Reza Falash, wealthy chief of Iran's nationalized oil industry. In Tehran, a court spokesman flatly denied the report.

VATICAN CITY—Pope Pius XII left the Vatican today for his summer residence of Castelgandolfo in the Alban hills south of Rome. The Papal motorcade was led by the Papal Cadillac limousine with a built-in golden throne, which was donated to the Pope several years ago by American Catholics.

TEHRAN, Iran—Premier Nikita Khrushchev has renewed his invitation to the Shah of Iran to visit the Soviet Union. A court spokesman said the Shah would accept if it is in the interests of the Iranian people" to do so.

Saanich Gardeners Allowed Extra Water

Garden-watering hours have been extended for residents of Saanich.

Continuing hot weather had brought about enforcement of restrictions: houses with even street-numbers could only water gardens on even-numbered calendar days; odd-numbered houses on odd days. Now all Saanich residents may water gardens in addition between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m. on any day.

Fire Situation Worse Hourly

The critical forest fire situation is getting worse by the hour. There are now 280 fires burning and 2,413 men are fighting the outbreaks.

Forest service officials had a job yesterday finding the words to express just how bad the situation was. "It's very, very serious," said one.

"NO RELIEF" "It's worse than it was yesterday and there is absolutely no relief in sight," a spokesman added.

The withering heat along the Pacific Coast and in the B.C. interior continued to add to the possibility of washouts in the fire hazard and 22 new fires turned down yesterday.

Chemical Warfare Success

Lamprey Meets Match

OTTAWA (CP)—A new chemical may ultimately spell the tests of the chemical have been end of the lamprey, the eel-like "spectacular" predator destructive to the Great Lakes' commercial fishery.

Dr. W. M. Sprules of the fisheries department yesterday told the Commons fisheries commmittee the results of recent field work against the lamprey, particularly partial to lake trout, has practically depleted the trout stock in Lake Huron and is eating its way into Lake Superior.

Fisheries officials said lamprey control and elimination are costly.

The new chemical, for instance is not yet commercially produced and costs about $100,000 for each application to a small stream, the growing grounds for the predator.

Dr. Sprules said electric weirs used to kill adult lampreys on their spawning runs—costs about $10,000 each and almost $10,000 to operate.

There are 69 electric barriers on streams entering Lake Superior—22 on the Canadian side and the rest in the U.S.—in an attempt to protect the trout stock remaining in that lake, the officials said.

New research is in progress on agents that can actually dissolve blood clots during the acute stages of a heart attack and the vessels that supply the heart muscle with blood.

Research has shown that fatty deposits often have a part in coronary attacks, by narrowing the coronary arteries or even plugging them completely.

In most cases, though, the formation of a blood clot brings about the final closure of the vital heart-muscle arteries.

Anti-Coagulants

Patients who have had heart attacks are frequently treated with anti-coagulant drugs such as dicumarol. These drugs inter-

The anti-coagulants have added years to the lives of many heart patients; but they do not eliminate already-existing clots, nor can they undo their damage.

New-Found Success

Yanks Unload Power To Humiliate Tigers

New York's new-found success against the Detroit Tigers continued yesterday as the mighty Yankees caught up with Jim (no-hit) Bunning with a late-inning home run attack and blasted the Tigers for the fourth straight game, 10-7.

Casey Stengel's crew, in who held Boston hitless in his sweeping the three-game series, last start and blanked the cracked out 51 hits and scored Yankees for six innings yesterday 39 runs in knocking the slump day. Yogi Berra's two-run Tigers into a tie for seventh place. Detroit had taken seven in row from the eighth and Mickey Mantle connected for his 26th in the Yankees early in the season but the clubs are now tied at 9-7.

It may have proved a costly win for the Yanks. Ryne

Duren, the young relief ace who is a leading candidate for rookie-of-the-year honors, was hit on the cheek by a pitch thrown by Paul Foytack and taken to hospital for examination.

There was no final report last night although early indications were that the fast-balling right-hander would remain in hospital for several days. Duren picked up the win but the Yankees used three pitchers, including ace Bob Turley, to put down a Detroit rally in the ninth frame.

Three Canadians, One U.S. Golfer Advance to Semis

TORONTO (CP) — Bob Brue, 23-year-old be-spectacled Milwaukee golfer, and three Canadians fought their way Thursday to the semi-finals of the Canadian amateur golf championship.

Veteran Ted Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., made a spectacular bid to stay in the running but lost out on the 18th in Two Toronto golfers, Eric Hanson and Bruce Castor, the slightly-favored Brue and the 23-year-old Winnipeg youngster advanced to the 36-hole semi-finals today.

Brue won 5 and 4 in the morning over H. H. Haverstick, Jr., of Lancaster, Pa., and then overcame big Doug Bajus of Vancouver 4 and 3 in the afternoon.

Brue will meet Hanson, and Castor will tangle with the doughty little Winnipegan in the semi-finals.

Lenczyk made a sensational four-hole comeback in the morning round against John Johnston of Vancouver to get even and then the two set out on a marathon trek that ended with Lenczyk winning at the 27th.

Lenczyk, tired after his marathon grind in the morning round, lost the first five holes to Homeniuk and was still trailing by four at the turn.

SQUARES MATCH

By the 16th hole, the veteran American was only one down and he squared the match at the 17th with a birdie. The Winnipeg youngster then won the 18th with a par four, Lenczyk missing his second putt.

Hanson put out Vancouver's Bob Kidd in the morning round, edging the captain of the B.C.'s Willingdon Cup team at the 18th hole. Hanson earlier defeated Bill Hyndman of Philadelphia, 3 and 2.

Bruce Castor reached the semi-finals by downing Gordie Bell of Toronto, 4 and 3.

Bajus, winner 4 and 3 in the morning over Tom Wilson of Detroit, knocked himself out of the running with a streak of over-par golf on the second nine against Brue.

Bajus three-putted two crucial greens and that proved the difference.

Canadians Do Well

Dazzling Day at Empire Games

CARDIFF. A world record was shattered and another equalled, athletes sprawled and stumbled over the track in desperate bids for glory and a protest took away a British Empire Games medal from a young Canadian in one of the most dazzling days in the history of the Commonwealth sport festival.

Competing under a hot sun and spectators on by a white heat 90° at Cardiff Arms Park, athletes from 40 countries had a day comparable to the final afternoon of the 1954 games at Vancover.

It was the hottest day two days before the fourth and final race in the same race for the first time in nine years. Ian Peters, English, has always been around the traps in a helmet and despite the heat.

After Peters, a Peterborough girl who remained in Australia after the 1956 Olympics, placed third in the 100 yards dash, she sliced the 200 and dashed 100 yards in 10.04.

Newsman Charged For Publishing Ad

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—F. W. H. Wellwood, executive assistant to the publisher of the Prince George Citizen, was summoned Wednesday to appear in police court Saturday on a charge of publishing unlawful advertising concerning a referendum.

The charge alleged that Mr. Wellwood let unlawfully publish advertising concerning and having reference to a municipal bylaw contrary to provisions of the B.C. Municipal Act.

The case arose out of an ad. verbiage which appeared in the Citizen Tuesday supporting city council's entry into the natural gas distribution business, the subject of the referendum.

Section 136 of the Municipal Act states that neither on the day preceding a vote or on voting day itself may anyone place up, post, or use flags, banners, placards, bills or undertake any form of advertising in any way concerning or having reference to the municipal election or referendum.

An injunction was issued against the newspaper Tuesday afternoon restraining it from publishing the advertisement in question.

Municipal department officials explained today that the Prince George presentation is the first of its kind under an amendment to the Municipal Act put through at the spring session of the B.C. Legislature.

Up to now there has been no limitation on newspaper advertising on municipal elections.

$100 FINE

The new section bars any form of advertising either on polling day or the day before and carries a penalty up to a $100 fine.

Previously there was a general ban against use of cockades or badges during a municipal campaign or against handing out placards and similar items on election day.

Coal Production Drops

Ottawa (CP)—Coal production in Canada fell off 11 per cent in the first six months of this year to 5,477,300 tons compared to last year's corresponding total of 6,491,700.

New Vote Coming Up?

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP)—Voters of Prince George may be given a second chance. Proposals that the city should undertake distribution of gas in the city failed Wednesday to gain the 60 per cent support needed.

Mayor Carrie Jane Gray Thursday said: "A number of complaints have been received about the way the referendum was held. These complaints are being investigated."

Dream Comes True

Ottawa Signs
Pact Today

OTTAWA, July 25.—The Saskatchewan government has signed a pact with Ottawa to help it meet its financial difficulties.

For decades the province has been a political issue in Saskatchewan.

Former Liberal prime minister St. Laurent while in office repeatedly turned down Saskatchewan requests for federal assistance on the ground that the province was in no difficulties in itself.

The agreement was to negotiate a $500,000 loan for the first year after completion of the dam. However, recent estimates of the past have been that the total amount will be $1,000,000 by the end of the day. The loan will be the heart of the Saskatchewan budget for 1958-59, to be discussed

Montreal Bus Fares Take Jump

MONTREAL (UPI)—The Montreal Transport Commission yesterday announced bus and streetcar fare increases averaging 20 per cent starting Aug. 24.

Tickets which now sell two for 25 cents will be two for 30 cents. Single cash fares will be 30 cents. In place of the 15-cent tickets will cost 30 cents for five, instead of 25 cents for five.

The increased rates apply to all island municipalities served by the commission, which said it hoped the increases would reduce an expected $1,920,000 deficit by almost half and anticipate a balanced budget in 1958.

Sally Ann Given $500 Grant As Aldermen Slice $25,000

Bond Scheme:

Liberal Policies Copied

Premier Bennett yesterday continued to wax hot over the federal government's Victory Bond refinancing scheme.

"The Tory party was a good party for the opposition," he said, "but now it is following exactly the same financial policies of the former Liberal government."

THREE WORST THINGS

These policies, he said, were tight money, high interest rates, and premium dollars—the three worst things for Canada.

The refinancing scheme, whereby Victory Bond holders may exchange their three per cent bonds for 4½ per cent longer term bonds will cost Canadian taxpayers at least $80,000,000 a year more for interest charges, he said.

NOTHING LIKE IT

"In all the history of Canada there has never been a motion split like this," Premier Bennett stated.

In the east, the premier added, he had heard that lots of people were sporting buttons reading "Don't weep on my shoulder, I didn't vote Tory."

She Gave; Did You?

Have I any left? asks AW2 Judy Bone, 1840 Kings Road, as nurse's aid Henley Van Dyk shows her the contribution she has just made to the blood clinic at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort. The clinic will be open for business at the same stand again today from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. and from 7 to 9:30 p.m.—(Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman).

Big Sewer Job Gets Approval

NANAIMO This city's sewer construction bylaw was passed last night by a 73 per cent majority.

Immediately after the result of the vote was known, Ald. Harg Boens said construction should start on the $2,500,000 project in about nine months. A total of 2,222 voters from among 5,700 eligible voters cast ballots—1,628 for and 574 against.

ERRINGTON Thirty-five co-workers and officials of the department of highways from Courtenay gathered recently at the home of E. H. (Tom) Ware to honor him on his retirement after 16 years' service as foreman Area for which he was responsible. Scrapped from De- parture Bay to Esquimalt and part of the summit on the Alberni Highway.

NANAIMO (CP) Thomas Piddington, a former school teacher, was remanded without bail on a charge of contributing to juvenile delinquency. A change will be held Sunday at 7:30 p.m. against him of circulating obscene photographs. The Craig Reid challenge was dismissed in County Court Monday.

'Pender Day' Aug. 16

Events will start at 11 a.m. with the dedication of Pender Park by Recreation and Conservation Minister E. C. Westwood. H. C. MacWilliams, director of provincial parks, will also participate.

Sports program will follow on War Amputations property at Browning Harbor. There will be a log-rolling competition, and a tug-of-war between Pender men and a navy team from the frigate.

Glasgow will open to public inspection during the afternoon. Gulf Islands Ferry Co. (1951) Ltd., of Ganges, is providing the services of the Motor Princess between Swartz Bay and the islands that day. O. H. New of Coast Ferries has promised full cooperation of service by Lady Rose.

will highlight the gala Klondike

Day being staged here at the community park and hall Aug. 2.

Victoria's Best Student Ties for Fifth

City's Geoffrey Arundell $500 Scholarship Winner

An 18-year-old Victoria High School student has tied for fifth place in the province-wide Grade 12 high school examinations, it was announced yesterday.

Geoffrey Arundell, 1448 Stadacona Avenue, chalked up an 89 per cent average in the exams to win a $500 university and Chris Spencer Foundation scholarship.

BEST IN VICTORIA

He topped all other Victoria students.

A Vancouver boy, George S. Pond, won the governor general's silver medal for having the highest average in the province of 92.9 per cent.

Second place was taken by Catherine Voel of Honeymoon Bay, a student at Lake Cowichan Junior Senior High School. She had a 90.1 per cent average and won the governor general's bronze medal as well as the $500 scholarship.

REFUGEE WINNER

Miss Voel, 17, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. Voel who left Estonia shortly after the end of the Second World War when the Russians took over the country. Mr. Voel works for Western Forest Products.

The young student is described as "a standout in languages."

It is believed to be the first time in several years that a Victoria student has not placed first or second in the examinations.

He had the news phoned to him by his thrilled parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Arundell late last night. He is working for the provincial forest service at Manning Park this summer.

SCIENCE FUTURE

He hopes to become a nuclear physicist.

A student at Victoria High for the past two years and before that at S. J. Willis and Glenlyon School, Geoffrey will attend Victoria College in the fall.

"He's always been interested in science," his mother said yesterday. "First of all it was astronomy but then that got him interested in science."

The scholarship winner will later go to University of B.C. to take his bachelor's and doctor's degrees.

For Ross Bay Cemetery

All Concerned To Study Plan

City council asked its cemetery committee yesterday to call together the church and other groups with interests in Ross Bay cemetery to see what can be done about a joint effort to improve it.

Chairman of the committee, Ald. D. J. Proudfoot, withdrew his proposal that the so-called Greater Victoria cemeteries board in charge of Royal Oak Burial Park be asked to take over Ross Bay too.

Putting the proposal before the cemetery board was no use, he said, when the chairman, Ald. M. H. Mooney, had already said it would be a waste of time.

The cemetery Ald. Proudfoot said, was a disgrace and the churches which had half of it should be interested in what was happening.

The people buried in the cemetery were from all parts of greater Victoria, he said, and the other municipalities and the provincial government should take some responsibility.

To improve the cemetery property would take 10 or 15 years before someone could sit on a bench and look at some shown.

Oil All Over

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Here are some beauty secrets of the native lands of the Miss Universe contest.

Miss Japan Tomoko Mori takes. Our women use a certain flour made of rice polishings. They put this in a little bag and wash the face with it.

Miss West Indies Angela Tong. The women just smear oil all over their bodies just before going to bed. But I don't do that.

Miss Poland, Alicia Bobiak. She is the first entrant from an Iron Curtain country. Polish women don't want to be beautiful because they are hard working people.

Miss Paraguay Graciela Scorta. I don't use nothing.

Costumes to Suit Historic Occasion

Historic Craigflower School is the background for this group of fashionably-dressed women, members of the Native Sons and Daughters of B.C., which is sponsoring a reception at the old school on Monday for more than 80 former pupils and to commemorate the first public school examination held at the school

No Good for Little Girls?

Beware Blue Jeans

NEW YORK (WNS)—Dress clothes and dresses the little girls in blue jeans who wear them. For instance, the hazel-eyed brown-haired designer advises adult colors for children's blouses, brown, deep blues, reds, purples and oranges.

"The children love them. Dress like colors. All that pastel propaganda for children's clothes was started by grown-ups. Why children have the best skin in the world, they can wear any color."

Miss Lee, whose son is a prize-winning children's clothes designer, has also a mother four, adds:

THEY'LL GET DIRTY

"I can't sympathize with the theory that putting a child in blue jeans keeps her cleaner. Little girls will get dirty in anything."

What most parents don't realize is that up to the age of seven or eight years, the separator dress stays off the floor. Separate her dress from me and psychology tells. If she looks pretty in a dress, and sometimes kids do, they'll look pretty. But if somebody sees something funny about the child, it's the child, not the child, that's funny."

As a result, she advises every mother to buy the two little girls, she says firmly, have no waistlines, and its pants will fit to stuff them into dresses with waistlines. A child is built like a small pig, and woman she's mostly produced him."

The proper dress shape for a child is a shape that fits the bottom. You can put the waistline anywhere you like. There's no real waistline to worry about."

ROME (WNS)—Society for the Protection of Italian Women has been founded in Rome. Its purpose: to protest against Italian men who flirt with women from other countries.

The first SPLW report stated: "Each summer the chase after feminine tourists begins again. It is an insult to Italian girls. It should be an insult to the foreign women, too, but they don't seem to take it that way."

Tourists Killed In Crash

Four United States tourists were killed Thursday when their car collided with a truck that went out of control while towing a house trailer on the Trans-Canada Highway five miles west of this summer resort.

RCMP said the dead are: Frank Freed, 74, of Red Oak, Iowa; his wife, Edna, 70; their daughter, Marie, 40; and a Minnesota woman, whose name is being withheld until next-of-kin have been notified.

RCMP said the 1½-ton truck, belonging to a Portage la Prairie, Man., firm started to weave just before it met the oncoming Iowa car on a highway made slippery by a light rain.

The car, driven by Mr. Freed, crashed into the front of the truck.

At different times during the tour private cars took advantage of the RCMP motorcycle escort ahead to break the speed limit. On a toll bridge used by the cavalcade several of the turnpike drivers complained bitterly that: "They went so fast you couldn't see the Princess."

Most amazing manoeuvre of the whole ride was the 50-mile-an-hour ascent of a long, steep hill on the road to Mission. The road has a number of tight curves and some official cars squealed around a few of the bends with a sheer drop to one side if they lost traction.

But, at the slowest part of the whole trip — 10 miles an hour — woman spectator complained bitterly that: "They went so fast you couldn't see the Princess."

The bright sun which Princess Margaret found in Victoria is still with her; she had almost cloudless skies all yesterday. One reverend gentleman found the heat too much for him in Abbotsford and removed his black coat but kept his collar and black cloth panel over his shirt front. And resting on the black cloth was a modern miniature camera.

LESS SECURITY

Security about the Princess seems to be lessening more and more each day . . . In the interior of B.C. when she went anywhere bridges she used were inspected and checked for safety and usually an RCMP red-coat stood on any bridge near her route . . . In the Fraser Valley yesterday the royal cavalcade used four bridges and not one was guarded.

VANCOUVER — Princess Margaret's wild ride through the Fraser Valley yesterday at speeds exceeding 85 miles an hour at times, caused one official driver to comment: "Just damn foolishness."

The Princess was 20 minutes late reaching Vancouver airport in the morning as she made an unscheduled stop at the city's children's hospital.

The high-speed driving began shortly after her arrival at the almost deserted Abbotsford airport and surprised both newsmen and spectators . . . One amateur movie fan was just coming out of his "shooting" crouch with amazement on his face as the end of the cavalcade whistled past him — he must have about three blurred frames of the Princess.
